

Online evidence of insurability made easy with a custom employer link

Employees need a simple way to complete benefits enrollment, and you need a simple way to help them. With our online evidence of insurability (EOI) process, employees can complete this essential enrollment step quickly and easily — and you can get on with your day.

A straightforward process for you and your employees

When employees need to submit EOI, you provide them with a link to our online EOI system and an access code. Then, they log in and complete their EOI application, and Unum will notify you of coverage decisions.

You have options for providing the link and access code:

- Embed in your benefits administration system: Provide the Unum online EOI link and access codes to your enrollment platform partner. Your partner builds online EOI into its system. All that's left to do is enroll.
- Post to your internal website: Post the online EOI link to your company's intranet, and give employees who need to submit EOI the appropriate access code. They sign in using the code and complete their EOI application.
- Email your employees: Once you've determined which employees need to submit EOI, you simply send them the online EOI link and the appropriate access code. To easily reach multiple employees, you can send one email per access code. Just be sure to blind copy the recipients.
- Have your enroller assist: Provide the link and access code(s) to your enroller. During enrollment, they can show employees who need to submit EOI where to go to complete the process.

For all enrollments and employees

You can use this process year-round for all new enrollments,* re-enrollments, late entrants and new hires.
